

COPPER REVIEW BY NOTED EXPERT

(From Saturday's Daily)

The ninth annual edition of the Copper Handbook, edited and published by Horace J. Stevens, of Brighton, Mich., is just received. The work, which has become a standard authority on the subject, for the year 1910, contains 1,628 octavo pages, containing considerably more than a million words, and, in addition to the miscellaneous chapters and lists, describes no less than 7,751 copper mines and copper mining companies, all parts of the world, descriptions ranging from two to three pages in the case of companies that have died recently, to sixteen pages in the case of one of the largest new mines, by the way, that employs some 7,000 men, and has paid dividends of considerably more than $1,000,000. The mine descriptions are the same as in the preceding volume, except that upwards of eight hundred new titles have been added, covering descriptions not contained in any previous edition. The chapter statistics, containing upwards of 100 tables, treating of copper from every conceivable standpoint, have been fully revised, and brought nearly as possible to date. The miscellaneous chapters of the book, twenty-four in number, treat the subject of copper from a great variety of viewpoints, including the history, chemistry, mineralogy, metallurgy and uses of the metal, and a section of the book also has been devoted to substitutes, all brands and grades, and a complete glossary.

The plan on which the book is published remains the same as for seven years past, the publisher sending the book by mail, fully prepaid, to any person ordered, without advance payment of any sort, and subject to approval after a week's inspection. The price is $5. That this unusually liberal plan has proven successful is shown by the statement of the publisher that the net losses on returned copies and default payments are less than 4 per cent. Anyone interested in the subject of copper, as producer, consumer or investor in shares, should write Mr. Stevens for a copy of the Copper Handbook on the unusually liberal terms noted.

PEABODY HALL DEDICATED.

PEABODY, Wis., April 15.—Peabody Hall, an addition to Lawrence hall, was dedicated today with interesting exercises. The principal speakers were Rev. William S. West of Chicago, Neal Brown of Wauwatosa and Judge Thomas H. Ryan of Peabody. The new hall cost $35,000 and is to be used by the college and community.

Brings Horses Back.

George C. Ruffner arrived from Phoenix yesterday with two car loads of horses that have been on pasture in the Salt River Valley during the past winter. Many of the animals belong to people in this city, while the majority will be placed in the live stock business of Mr. Ruffner.

Pioneer Visitor.

W. J. Simmons, the pioneer resident of Williamson Valley, was in the city yesterday for a brief business trip, returning home in the afternoon. The range is reported in good condition by him and the coming season one of excellent prospects for the cattlemen especially.

Makes Quick Time.

Robert Keating, whose firm is constructing the brick work for the new Fagerberg building at Ash Fork, returned to look after the work, after a brief visit to the city. He says that railroad center is facing a good era in its future, and the double-tracking of the Santa Fe through the place will add materially to its business life for the next six months.

Now An Industrious Farmer.

Kelly Crozier, for many years a capable railroad man on the S. P. & P., but now engaged in farming in Skull Valley, was in the city yesterday on business. He reports the new vocation as a desirable one and anticipates a thrifty season through the arrival of rains at an opportune time. He has a good acreage under cultivation.

Agricultural Outlook Good.

T. E. Reynolds, who is farming extensively on the Agua Fria, near Dewey, returned yesterday after a few days at his ranch. He states that the recent rains have started the growth of grass on the range, while the cultivated area is assured of an abundant crop this season. The country is assuming a verdant hue and rejoicing is everywhere in evidence among the land owners.

Mining Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Arizona Gold company took place yesterday in this city, at which the old board of directors and officers were re-elected for another year. Dr. O. L. Geer, the president, was in attendance, and returned to his home at Congress Junction, last night. This company is developing ground at Golden, on the A. & C., and splendid results are attending the work. The yield is a distinctively gold one.

Returns Home.

Mrs. Ed. Mulholland, who arrived Wednesday from Long Beach, Cal., where her husband, who is seeking relief from illness, left yesterday for her home at Camp Verde. Her husband has materially improved in the past few weeks, and in a short time will return, which good news will be welcomed by the many friends of this estimable family. Mr. Mulholland was reported at one time as critically ill, and his wife was called to his bedside.

Census Enumerator Arrives.

L. A. McKinley, who is attached to the enumerating service of the county, reached the city yesterday from Wagoner, and will start on his official duties today. He says the gathering of several hundred head of cattle is going on in that section for market and the range assuming its old time appearance. The country generally is prosperous and a better season is apparent than in former years owing to the mining industry getting into active life again and the good yield promised at the many farms.

(From Saturday's Daily)

Returns to Home.

John H. Ehle, after a few days in the city on business duties, returned to his home in Skull Valley yesterday.

Go to Coast.

Dr. R. N. Looney left yesterday for Los Angeles on a brief business trip. He has important matters to attend to.

Start the Octave.

Davis & Hurley, who have secured a lease on the Octave mine, near Stanton, for one year, left yesterday for that camp, to get the machinery in order and to start development. Mr. Davis is regarded highly as a mining man, and the new firm anticipates a successful operation during the life of the lease.
